Three More Franchises Sought By Teams In Near-by Cities

Coshocton now has a berth in the new Eastern Ohio semi-pro baseball league, which is composed of six teams. Initial steps were taken Sunday at a meeting of five representatives in the Rogge hotel, Zanesville toward the organization of the new league.

Otto Bries, secretary of last season's Coshocton Regulars represented the local team at this meeting.

The diamond representatives were from Zanesville, Newark, Columbus, Cambridge, Mt. Vernon and Coshocton. If this baseball proposition goes thru it will insure the above cities high class league baseball for 1923.

The league opens the season on April 28 on Saturday with Zanesville, Newark and Columbus road teams playing in smaller cities of the league. The next day the same teams will again play in the same towns while on the following Saturday and Sunday Zanesville and Newark will open at home. Holiday dates will be awarded the larger cities. PRESBYTERIANS' REVIVAL MEETINGS ARE BEGUN SUN.

R. E. Mitchell, of New York, singing evangelist, had charge of the Sunday evening service in the First Presbyterian church, which marked the opening of a series of special revival meetings.

A chorus of 30 trained voices, under the singer's direction, presented a good musical program of songs. Mr. Mitchell gave a short talk on the word, "Influence," taking each letter separately, explaining its use in connection with the Christian's life. At the close of the service, Mr. Mitchell, who possesses a clear, deep voice, sang a solo. The church was well filled.

Mr. Mitchell is arranging for a chorus of children's voices, ranging from the second to the eighth grades. The children meet each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the church.

The Rev. Joseph A. Speer will occupy the pulpit at this evening's service, which begins at 7:30 o'clock. Tuesday evening, Dr. Andrew W. Blackwood will make his initial appearance in the pulpit, to assume charge of the sermons. Dr. Blackwood will remain here during the entire period of meetings, which ends February 19.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — Put United States destroyers off the eastern coast to torpedo the rum smugglers and arm the seaboard with 16-inch rifles that will drive the whiskey fleet thirty miles out—then America will be in a measure safe for prohibition. That's the way the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church would solve liquor smuggling, William J. Bryan, endorsed the recommendation of the temperance board today and added that foreign ships with liquor on board should not be permitted to enter our harbors under any circumstances. The temperance board said the three mile limit, outside of which the liquor ships now await opportunity to transport their wares ashore, should be extended as far as the

WATSON ARRESTED FOR PASSING A WORTHLESS CHECK

Charge Of Forgery Is Placed Against Him; J. C. Smith Also Sought

Jesse Watson was arrested Monday morning on an affidavit sworn out by Paul Thornasley, charging forgery.

His arrest followed an attempt to pass a check for $12, drawn on the Banks & Thornasley Coal Co., at the Carbon shoe store.

Watson had a pair of shoes at Cartons' and paid with the check. He was given back some change. Fearing that the check might be worthless, James Cartons called the Banks & Thornasley Coal Co., and then learned that no check had been issued to Watson.

Watson was caught at the Swift and Rice clothing store. He returned the shoes and the change, and accepted the check, declaring that it had been passed to him by a J. C. Smith. In the meantime Thornasley had an affidavit sworn out, and Watson was arrested.

His arraignment was held up pending the arrest of J. C. Smith, who is suspected of being implicated in the transaction by Watson.

Watson was identified by George Brushwood of the Central Hardware Co. as the man who attempted to pass a false check at his store several days ago. Police say that Watson and Smith have passed a number of worthless checks in local business places during the past two weeks.

Altho her burns are serious, and her condition critical, it is believed that she has an even chance for recovery. She rested fairly well Sunday night.

Just how her clothing happened to catch fire is unknown. She was playing downstairs and it is thought that she attempted to throw some article into the grate and became overbalanced. Her parents were upstairs when they heard her screams.

The little girl was completely enveloped in flames when they reached her. The blaze was extinguished as quickly as possible, and Dr. E. C. Carr was called to dress the burns.

TODAY'S RHINELAND DEVELOPMENTS:

Reports (most of them unconfirmed) were received of the killing of 12 Germans by French soldiers in various parts of the occupied Rhineland. The most serious disorders were at Ingelheim, where the French were said to have shot and killed nine Germans during an anti-French demonstration. The Baden government ordered German officials to disobey the French military officials in the three Baden towns taken over by the French Sunday when they extended their occupation towards Bavaria.

PRESIDENT HARDING PLANS TOUR OF WEST WITH CONGRESS IDLE

Politicians Believe Trip Thru Radical States May Prove Valuable

MAY VISIT ALASKA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — With congress packing its trunks for a long summer vacation—the first in eight years—President Harding is planning to spend a good part of the approaching summer swinging around some of the circles he neglected during the campaign of 1920, and which he has been too occupied to undertake since his entry into the White House, two years ago.

Mr. Harding has not been what is known as "a travelling president." Aside from a couple of vacation trips to Florida, and weekend jaunts not far from Washington, Mr. Harding has done little traveling since he became president. He probably has delivered fewer speeches away from Washington than any chief executive in recent years.

The president's friends explain this on the ground that few presidents have been so engrossed with public work as has Mr. Harding. He has had congress on his hands almost continuously since he was

INDIANS DUE TO FINISH BETTER, SAYS SPEAKER

Veteran Leader Doesn't Figure On Pennant, but Would Improve Status

MANY NEW FACES LOOMING

Machine To Be Reconstructed; Job Begun Last Season, As Team Began To Wane

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5.—"The Indians will finish higher this year than they did last."

This is the confident prediction of Tris Speaker, gray-thatched leader of the tribe for three and one-half seasons, in one of which, 1920, he piloted his team to the world's championship; in another finished second, being noosed out in a grueling finish at the wire in 1921, when his pitchers failed to stand the strain, and last year coming in fourth behind the Yanks, Browns and Tigers.

"Spoke" is laying no claims to a pennant. The work of rebuilding a team that may in time become a contender for the highest honors was begun in midseason last year, when Speaker realized that his veterans had passed the zenith, and could no longer be depended upon, and when the umpire's "Play ball" is heard at Dunn field, April 18, the team that will take the field in Cleveland's home uniforms will not be recognized by one who watched it make its fights for pennants in 1920 and 1921.

MANY NEW PLAYERS

New men will be seen at third base, where Walter Lutzke, obtained from Milwaukee this winter, will replace the veteran, Larry Gardner, whose batting eye is still good, but whose "pins" have seen their best days.

At first, "Stuffy" McInnes, long considered the best fielding first baseman in the league, will have to fight for a place with Louis Guiso, and on last year's team, and Frank Brower, obtained in a trade with Washington this winter. Brower was used both in the outfield and at first base by Milan and is said to have a healthy wear that may manufacture many home runs over the short right field fence at Dunn Field.

The other infield positions will

Jamieson will be back in left field, while the third regular will be selected from among a number of promising youngsters.

For pitchers, Coveleskie, Morton, and Uhle are the only veterans, but in Sherrod Smith, secured from Brooklyn last year, Medvler, Bedgood and half a dozen others who have come up with good records in the minor leagues Speaker believes he has the making of a first-class pitching staff.

"We'll finish higher than last year," was his parting prediction. "If Coveleskie, Uhle and Morton make good and we uncover a real find among our youngsters, look out! I'm not claiming anything more than improved standing, but—And the Indian leader left his sentence unfinished.

Cleveland Citizen Says Stomach Trouble Is No More—Tanlac Again Proves Merit

"I'm not surprised that Tanlac is called the 'World's Greatest Tonic,' for it has got me to feeling like a new man," recently said John H. Brown, 2824 Washington Ave., Cleveland.

"My troubles were treating me pretty rough before I got Tanlac. My appetite lost its edge, my digestion stalled on me, and there was gas, sourness and burning in my stomach after every meal. Headaches, backaches and dizzy spells bothered me up and put me on the rack repeatedly. I couldn't half sleep, and mornings I felt so bad it was hard for me to peel off my coat and get down to work."

"Well, I took Tanlac to put me back in shape and three bottles, just half the full treatment, has made me feel like a man made over. I can pull and tug like a two-year-old now, and I never pass an opportunity to tell others about this great medicine."

U.S. OFFICIAL AT WORLD MEET TO FIGHT ANTHRAX

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia

Fatal Germ Often Transmitted to Humans Through Skins Of Long Dead Animals

PREVENTIVES ARE SOUGHT

To Protect Wool Industry, Big Sum Spent By British For A Disinfecting Plant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A world-wide move looking toward setting up permanent precautionary measures to prevent the spread of anthrax has been initiated, according to Dr. M. Dorset, of the department of agriculture. Dr. Dorset has just returned to Washington from London, where, unofficially, he attended the conference of the International Advisory Committee on the prevention of anthrax.

This conference, consisting of members from Great Britain, India, Australia, South Africa, Italy, Sweden, Germany, France and Belgium, went on record as favoring adoption of protective measures by all nations of the world. At the same time the conference sought to determine more effective methods for disinfecting wool, hides, skins and hair, most common carriers of anthrax.

INFECTS STOCK

Anthrax is an infectious disease of cattle, horses and sheep, which usually is transmitted to humans through the medium of hair brushes.

Repeated steps to wipe out anthrax in this country have been made in congress. In the last congress a bill was introduced which would prohibit the importation of hair brushes. During the Fordney-McCumber tariff clash a similar attempt was made. The department of agriculture is devoting considerable time in experimentation with new methods of disinfecting wool.

Deaths in this country caused by anthrax, as compared with other nations, have been relatively few, there having been only 222 deaths from this disease in the 8 years preceding 1917. In places where they might have been prevented by proper disinfection. No method for protecting farmers and dock workers, who handle wool, hides and hair brought into this country, however, has yet been found.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

In an endeavor to guard her wool workers, Great Britain has erected a large disinfecting plant in Laverpool, at a cost of $750,000. Dr. Dorset reported. The cost of operating this plant is approximately 7 cents a pound for wool. So far, however, no effective disinfecting method has been devised for hides and skins that is not injurious to these products.

In a special communication the department of agriculture warns farmers of America, in order to prevent anthrax, not to attempt to salvage skins of animals that have died from unknown cause. About 20 per cent of anthrax fatalities result from skinning animals that die from unknown ailments. The department declared.

MADDEN ADVOCATES GIVING FORD THE SHOALS CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Acceptance of the offer of Henry Ford for Muscle Shoals was recommended by Representative Madden, Republican of Illinois, chairman of the appropriations committee.

"It is my conclusion we should accept the Ford offer, get out of business in connection with Muscle Shoals and permit its completion, operation and production at the earliest date possible. I am interested only in sufficient guarantee to the government. Frankly, I do not think that Ford is getting such a wonderful bargain. At the end of the 100-year lease he proposes the government will get back nearly all it has expended. I know of no other individual or group as capable as Ford to put this project thru. I am not concerned over politics or affiliations. I am interested in the success of the plant and I want to see it producing fertilizers," Madden said.

"The question for us to decide is the best way out to the greatest advantage of the people. We cannot stop the farmers need the fertilizers at the lowest cost. The army and navy must have nitrate service to meet future contingencies. We should go ahead at all hazards. The project, the plants, the dams, must be completed, equipped and operated either by the government or by private enterprise, so we must decide whether we prefer to sink additional huge sums with the uncertainty of government management or accept the Ford offer."

Madden said if the government went ahead to complete the plant it would require an additional $81,000,000. Expenditures to date including authorizations aggregate $107,000,000 making the grand total of investment in the project $191,000,000.

CHARM SCHOOL. MOTHER! MOVE TO TEACH MAIDS HOW TO BE NICE

Looseness Of Deportment Caused By War Penetrating Best Homes, Is Charge

"GULP AND GOBBLE" FOOD

Chicago Y. W. C. A. Now Plans To Aid Young Women In Effort To Ban Rudeness

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The American people are atrocious eaters. They eat with their eyebrows as well as their jaws. They "duck" to meet the brimming fork and gulp, gobble and grab. It must stop.

With personality developed, a girl lacking in beauty can accomplish 100 per cent more than she who is only good to look upon.

Such are the convictions of Miss Irene A. Skinner, director of the "Charm School," which the Chicago Y. W. C. A. opened recently. Ninety-nine of each 100 applying for tuition, said Miss Skinner, are actuated by self-consciousness. Girls, reacting from the rudeness and vulgarities of the "dapper," are fearful of losing those little niceties which make for charm, she explained. The looseness of deportment bred by the war has penetrated most markedly into the ranks of the rich, particularly their children, and even among the clergy.

"There is no set rule for a girl acquiring 'charm,'" said Miss Skinner. "The conventions must be followed. I hope to strike a medium between the boldness of the 'dapper' and the 'princess' of the other extreme."

"One of the things that suffocate charm is the tendency of persons to be agreeable and polite by 'yesing' one another to death. That word 'yes' is the cause of so much dullness in conversation. One should never answer just 'Yes' or 'No.' The reply should be 'Yes, but—' or 'No, and—' In that way conversation is tossed back and forth like a ball and does not die."

"Our bad manners are on display at the table. The universal vice is eating too fast. And would you give leave that in this day and age 'nice people' still leave their spoons in their cups?"

"The essence of politeness and charm is unchanged through centuries. Swift's definition of good manners still holds—to make those about us feel at ease."

"We are in too great a hurry. We say 'Pardon my wet glove,' instead of taking it off."

"At the end of this glass year we shall have a reception to 'show off' what we have learned. Intelligent appreciation of kindly deeds is one solution. The other is the dynamic within the static."

'HIGH FINANCE' IS NECESSARY

Buying And Selling In Money Engaged In By Many as Only Salvation

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The chief sufferers from the tremendous increase in the cost of living that has occurred in the last four years have been the middle-class people, with fixed incomes. As prices advance they have been slowly but surely driven to the wall.

An elderly maiden lady of Hannover, however, who inherited not only a modest competence but her father's business ability, has beaten the h. c. l. so far by utilizing her last remaining piece of jewelry—a diamond and pearl necklace.

Finding herself at the end of her resources about a year and a half ago, she pawned the necklace for 30,000 marks. Three months later she borrowed 30,000 marks from a banker, redeemed the pledge and promptly pawned it again for 110,000 marks, repaid the bank loan and still had enough to live on for another six months, whereupon she borrowed 110,000 marks, got her necklace out of pawn and thereupon pawned it for 1,500,000 marks.

The explanation for this feat of financial wizardry is that the mark in the last year and a half has depreciated at a perfectly furious rate, with a corresponding increase in "money values." The elderly maiden lady only took a leaf out of the book of the speculators in foreign exchange, who, confident that the mark will fall, secure bank loans, buying dollars with the proceeds. Three months later, when the loan falls due, they sell enough dollars to repay the loan and still have a handsome profit left. It may have cost them 5,000 marks to buy a dollar, but when the loan falls due they can buy perhaps 8,000 marks with that dollar. And that's why foreign exchange dealers here are as common as soda clerks in the states.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The chief sufferers from the tremendous increase in the cost of living that has occurred in the last four years have been the middle-class people, with fixed incomes. As prices advance they have been slowly but surely driven to the wall.

IT WAS A SILLY BET IN THE FIRST PLACE —By BUD FISHER

What about this investment?

If you can make an investment returning 6 per cent or 8 per cent on the principal, you feel you have made a good investment.

Returns of 100 per cent on the original fertilizer investment are very common among users of Swift's Red Steer Fertilizers; returns of 200 per cent to 300 per cent are not exceptional.

You should be interested, then, in how much fertilizer you can use per acre, not how little.

A safe investment is always the best. You play safe when you buy Swift's Red Steer Fertilizers.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers
At Home and Abroad

(By KENNETH W. CLARK)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Page boys of the Senate, ranging in ages from 12 to 15, have formed a Junior Senate.

It is patterned, even to the most minute details of rules and procedure, after the United States Senate, where these boys eagerly answer every beck and call of the 55 members of the upper legislative chamber of the country.

The fundamental purpose of the new organization is to foster better spirit and co-operation among the boys and to promote study of government, politics and history.

As a side line, the Junior Senate will provide entertainments and athletic contests for the boys. The membership has reached 15.

The Junior Senate has a president, a president pro tempore, a chaplain and all the regular officers and functionaries of the Senate. There are five standing committees—Athletic, Contingent Expenses, Entertainment, Library and Rules.

While the youthful lawmakers have not yet a steering committee or factional leaders, they do recognize a filibuster. In the first minutes of the organization it was reported officially that one of the pages was filibustering against certain nominations.

The salutations and formalities of the Senate are strictly observed. Every page is a member of at least one of the standing committees, but it is specifically provided no page may serve on more than two of the major committees, or upon more than three committees at any one time.

The resolutions and bills of the Junior body are recorded, numbered and filed exactly as is done in the Senate.

As in the Senate, there is no limitation on debate, tho after the first meeting considerable agitation arose among certain members for an alteration of procedure so that "tag rule" might be adopted.

An amazingly interesting and entertaining document of the Junior Senate is the record of the initial and organization meeting. It is written in the manner and style of the Journal of the Senate. Excerpts follow:

"Mr. Gaylord presented a resolution (S. P. Res. 1) in which the Cabinet had appointed members for each of the five standing committees, for which he asked unanimous consent for immediate consideration.

"Mr. Knight then objected to the consideration of the resolution on the ground the Cabinet had not been empowered to appoint the membership of said committees.

"Mr. Brew obtained recognition and introduced a resolution (S. P. Res. 2) whereby the Cabinet could recommend but not appoint the membership of committees which was agreed to.

"Mr. Gaylord then reintroduced his resolution as a recommendation of the Cabinet that the following should constitute the committees—the committee personnel then follows.

"Mr. Coughlin then offered a resolution (S. P. Res. 3) directing the Rules Committee to draw up a constitution and a set of by-laws, which was agreed to.

"Mr. Brew then tendered a resolution (S. P. Res. 4) that would make Mr. Riedel, who had just become a member, Chaplain and would also place him on the committee from which Mr. Cheatham had resigned, it being the Committee on Entertainments. The resolution was agreed to.

"After this Mr. Brew offered a resolution (S. P. Res. 5) placing Mr. Riedel on the Rules Committee. Some debate ensued, whereupon Mr. Myers asked for the Yeas and Nays. The Yeas and Nays were ordered. The vote showed: Yeas, 9; Nays, 2. So the resolution was agreed to."

There then followed resolutions appointing a sergeant-at-arms and an assistant sergeant-at-arms.

"Mr. Brew then suggested an adjournment, but Mr. Myers, who was filibustering, suggested the absence of a quorum. A quorum was present."

Motions directing the secretary as to how the minutes of meetings should be recorded were adopted, and the Junior Senate, after successfully weathering its first filibuster, finally adjourned.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The Tiergarten is the Central Park of Berlin. Lying in the very heart of the city, it is the playground for children, the trysting place for lovers, who still abound in the face of grim adversity, the scene of merriment and robbery and murder, and the chosen ground for suicide.

It is a ghostly place on these gray winter afternoons. An uncanny gray light filters between the trees and through the light mist that marks the winter season here. With the sounds of the great unseen city that surrounds it only faintly heard, and only an occasional pedestrian to be seen, one feels himself in an enchanted forest.

It is so gray and gloomy—the very embodiment of the German spirit to day. It is a tangible ghost story.

No wonder the desperate come here to end their woes. One seems to have entered a world of the dead.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe To Darken And Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or miffs the face. When it fades, turns gray, or streaks, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" not because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia), sore and sore, jars and tubes.

Better than a mustard plaster

So far from life in this park that death seems scarcely a transition. And the policeman on patrol who finds the suicide's body simply says "another one."

Murder and suicide are common phenomena in the Tiergarten. A young man, despairing of ever being able to marry the girl he loves, and seeing no use in continuing what to him is a futile existence, shoots his sweetheart and turns the gun upon himself. It has happened not once, but often. That's why the policeman don't register surprise any more.

"What is the use of living?" is a question that is often heard in Germany these days. And not from the mouths of cynics but from very simple, innocent people who in normal times would never have even known that there is a Problem of Existence. The taxi drivers, the cooks and housemaids, the common laborers, as well as the starving middle class are all asking the same question.

"What is the end of life?" these workers ask. "Why do we have to work so hard without reward? We lost the war, to be sure, but is that any reason why we should be hounded off the face of the earth? What is the use of living?"

And for many, the fact that they can find no answer is too much to bear. They cannot face the prospect of a cheerless, colorless life of misery. So they go out into the Tiergarten and shoot themselves, or, if they haven't a revolver, hang themselves in their homes.

Particularly tragic are the suicides of aged couples. Within one week, in one small German city, six such couples committed suicide. Their life savings gone as a result of the furious rise in prices, and unable to work, they could see no way out except suicide. And the suicide rate among the aged is high here in Berlin.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION COURSE TO BE GIVEN BY STATE UNIVERSITY

COLUMBUS, Feb. 5.—Responsive to demands for trained teachers of physical education, multiplied in number and insistence since the war, Ohio State University will offer a four-year course in physical education, leading to a degree in the college of education, beginning next fall.

The course, as described by Dean George F. Arps, of the college of education, will require 46 semester hours credit in the exact sciences, 10 in cultural subjects, 50 in educational theory and 46 in physical education. Most of the work in the latter group is scheduled for the third and fourth years of the course.

"Introduction of the new major, which grows from a minor now offered, reflects the increased demand for trained college men and women to take responsible positions teaching and directing physical education, play, recreation and athletics," preliminary bulletin is forth. "The curriculum," it is pointed out, "will aim to develop teachers and leaders with broad cultural interests, fine ideals and sound educational background rather than to produce coaching specialists."

Appropos of the need for such a course, "recent surveys reveal a demand for more than 40,000 physical education teachers for grade and high schools, college, Y. M. C. A. and Boy Scout groups, industries, playgrounds and kindred fields with only 5000 trained teachers available, according to Dr. J. H. Nichols, director of men's physical education at Ohio State University.

"In Ohio, physical education is now required in all city schools, with a law pending intended to extend the scope to all schools," he reminded and called attention to "the tremendous development of public opinion for better and more extensive physical training as a result of widespread defects revealed by draft examinations during the war, the development of playground, the spread of athletics for masses, and aroused interest in health environment of school child and."

"The aim of the course to be offered by Ohio State University," as stated by L. W. St. John, director of athletics, "is to offer a training that will provide a balance between broad cultural education and specialization, equipping graduates to organize and direct the recreation of all sorts and sizes of groups, to coach sports or even to teach sciences."

Sixth St. Theatre

"THE BAT" TONIGHT

At the Sixth-st theatre tonight Wagenhals and Kemper will present, for the first time in this city, their sensational dramatic success, "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood. Theatre goers have awaited impatiently the coming of this play for more than a year.

With more than two years' run to its credit in New York and a record of a solid year in Chicago by another company in the same attraction, "The Bat" stands out clearly as the one great big success of all years. Moreover, every bit of success that has been its share, belongs to it rightfully.

"The Bat" is a dramatic thriller—some critics have referred to it as a "dramatic smash." The appellation is a good one. It is exactly that. Not only is it thrilling to the point of keeping its audience on the edge of their chairs from beginning to end, but it is, moreover, actually one of the funniest plays staged in years.

The humor of "The Bat" is more of situations than of mere funny lines. In the development of the story, the authors, than whom there are none more expert in doing just that sort of thing, have managed to contrive situation after situation that leaves the audience fairly breathless from laughter. Were this to occur in the ordinary play it would not be so remarkable but in a play of the thrilling nature of "The Bat" it is remarkable in the extreme.

"The Bat" is presented by Wagenhals and Kemper, known throughout the country for their success as producers of hits. "The Bat" has been staged with all the uncanny skill of the management and is acted by a company of unusual excellence.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Why Did Dicky Heed Claire Foster and Not Madge?

I FELT my old distaste for Claire Foster creeping over me at her jesting references to Tom Chester's liking for me, and her own admiration for him.

The adumbrations were in the worst possible taste, I said to myself, and I could not help adding them to the list of offenses against the canons of good breeding which the girl had committed ever since arriving at the Bliss apartment. Had my recent estimate of her as a crude, metallic, unscrupulous modern piece of femininity been the correct one? Had her apparent remorse for her escapade, and her desire to atone, been merely cunning subterfuges to appease the wrath which she knew many women would have directed against her?

With a weary little sigh I dismissed the problem of Claire Foster's queer actions from my mind. I had too many other things to puzzle over. Her mention of Tom Chester had reminded me that within a few days I must return home, and I knew only too well what would be Dicky's reaction when he found that the sick young soldier was being cared for at our home. Dr. Pettit's probable actions, also, were a source of keen worry. I must get in touch with Lillian at the first possible moment.

A Silent Breakfast

As I finished the preparation of breakfast, and wheeled the wagon containing the dishes into the living-room, I perfected my plan for the day. As soon as possible after breakfast I would go out on a shopping tour to match the etched glass Claire Foster had broken. It appeared never to have occurred to her that she should have shouldered this task. Instead, she had asked indifferently how much I thought the thing cost, and proposed leaving the money for it in an envelope when we left.

But first of all I would get into com-

THE HOME KITCHEN

Four Recipes That Are Favorites of Oriental Nations

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

AMERICAN women as a rule are eager to learn how to cook the special dishes of other nations. Most Indian curries are an interesting dish, and is excellent if properly made. It may be a bit of a surprise to learn that there are other things that curry well besides the inevitable rice and chicken. In almost all of the recipes used in Indian cookery, "ghae" takes the place of our own butter or oil, and is as easy to understand first just how it is made.

Indian Ghee

Ghee is a carefully prepared, clarified butter that is not greasy, and that keeps a long time in a cool dry place. One pound of butter makes three-quarters of a pound of ghee. Break up one pound of butter in a clean saucepan and melt it in a double boiler. Bring this mixture to the boiling point slowly, then boil it gently until all the water has evaporated, and it looks quite white with little or no froth on top. Remove from the fire and let the first heat pass off, then strain it through a fine piece of muslin cloth into a clean jar. When cold, cover and keep in a cool place.

Vegetable Curry

Peel and quarter one pound of potatoes, wash and slice a small cauliflower. Open and drain a small can of peas. Peel and chop one small Spanish onion, and let them stand in water for five minutes. Add to them a pound of small raisins and a half-pound of well washed currants. Lay the apples in a dish, cover them with a quarter-pound of ghee, and let them stand in water for five minutes. Add to them a pound of small raisins and a half-pound of well washed currants. Lay the apples in a dish, cover them with a quarter-pound of ghee, and let them stand in water for five minutes. Add to them a pound of small raisins and a half-pound of well washed currants.

Apple Chutney

This delightful relish for cold meat needs tart and firm apples of tender flesh to be succeeded by a few quinces, core, then slice five pounds of apples. Peel and slice thin four ounces of green gingers. Halve and stone one pound of large raisins, add to them a pound of small raisins and a half-pound of well washed currants. Lay the apples in a dish, cover them with a quarter-pound of ghee, and let them stand in water for five minutes. Add to them a pound of small raisins and a half-pound of well washed currants. Lay the apples in a dish, cover them with a quarter-pound of ghee, and let them stand in water for five minutes. Add to them a pound of small raisins and a half-pound of well washed currants.

Cocunut Curry

Put two pounds of sugar with a tablespoonful of water in a saucepan and boil them to a syrup. Stir in two pounds of diced coconut and a small amount of diced raisins. Mix these ingredients gently over a low fire. When mixed, turn them into a bowl to cool, and when quite cool, beat in with them the yolks of two eggs lightly. Take the yolks of another two eggs and mix with enough flour to make a stiff paste. Beat it out very thin and line six small tins with it. Then fill them with the coconut mixture. Bake in a medium oven to a delicate brown. Draw from the oven, sprinkle with a little powdered sugar and a few drops of rose-water, and put back in the oven for a couple of minutes. The cakes are very dainty and not difficult to make if directions are carefully followed.

IMITATION?

By Juanita Hamel

BLACK eyes—midnight black—in contrast to pure whites—black coat with fur as white as snow against the snow of fields and forests—black tree-trunks, in contrast matching with their white snow trimmings—how Beauty loves to imitate the beauty of the open spaces! And yet is it just coincidence—or does Nature, working through a birdling's heart ordain that she shall find beside her very feet the form she has just traced upon the tree-trunk's snow? Still, aren't ALL hearts ONE?

EIGHTEEN, and as good as gold, such good gold, too—without a bit of alloy. Honest and frank and generous and warm-hearted.

Witty and merry, or would be if she had a chance. Not bad-looking either, in a kind of a roguish, rosy, simple way.

One of those girls with the neat ankle and a way with her hair that curls whenever it rains.

And she works downtown in an office. No, she hasn't much of a job, but she does the work she's paid for, and does it well. And everybody in the office likes her. She's always so cheerful and good-humored and obliging.

But lately she's beginning to change. She isn't as rosy as she was, and her little office frock is getting shabby, and I noticed the other day that the heels of her neat little shoes were just a trifle run down.

And this morning she looked as if she had cried a good deal before she went to sleep last night.

We've all been wondering what is the matter, and none of us has dared ask.

She's a proud little thing, and she never talks much about her own affairs, though she's always vitally interested in everything that's happening to the other girls.

Her Problems at Home

"Is she in love?" we thought.

Has that tall young fellow who has been seen waiting for her at the corner two or three evenings changed his mind, and is he waiting for another girl on some other corner?

No, it was her birthday yesterday, and she wore a bunch of violets pinned to her oldish little coat, and the way she flushed and smiled when I spoke to her about it—no, the young man's all right!

And her mother isn't ill. Some one saw her just the other day. Who was it that came to the office not long ago and wanted to see her? A shabby, bullying sort of man, who didn't seem quite sober?

That's it—her father!

Father used to be a good deal of a man, they say, but he's gone down and down. He drinks and he gambles—and I've just heard that he's anything but kind at home. But the poor little mother won't leave him, and Daughter can't bear to leave Mother, for fear of what will happen.

The tall young man wants to take her away from the misery and the humiliation and the poverty, and sometimes she says she'll go, but when she looks at Mother and thinks of all she has suffered, she hasn't the heart—and she's getting shabbier and shabbier. And the office manager likes to see the girls looking neat—I wonder how it's all going to end?

I wish it would end right now.

I wish little Curly-locks would say yes to the tall young man, and go away with him—yes, even if her poor little mother cries. That selfish father has already wrecked two lives. What right has he to ruin four?

Spring Will Come Again

And perhaps the mother will wake up and come to her senses and leave the hopeless, selfish creature who is dragging her into the gutter with him—and hold up her head and be a proud, self-respecting woman again as she was before she had lived day and night with degradation and sullen vice.

Lift up your head, Curly-locks. Marry the tall young man; help him to make a place for himself in the honest, decent world—and then perhaps you can really help your mother.

Yes, it's winter now. The wind blows cold, and in some places the earth is hard and frozen, but under the ice the clear water still flows, and some day in the spring we shall hear the birds sing again.

May a pair of them build a nest on a little porch of your own little home, Curly-locks, and show you how to sing and be happy.

Now Is the Time to Banish Some Beauty Blemishes

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

At this time of year there are many clever women who begin taking beauty measures in advance of the spring weather, which will be so hard upon their beauty.

There may be cold winds now which chap lips and tend to dry tender skins. If you suffer from these winter visitors, no doubt you keep ever in readiness on your dressing table a skin food and a lipstick or lotion to moisten and smooth chapped lips.

But while you are applying a skin food to nourish the delicate tissues and to smooth over the rough surface left by winter weather, you must also have a thought for the windy spring days to come.

In other words, if you have a certain amount of sunburn or a few freckles left over from last summer, why not try to free them now before spring adds other marks on top of those you already have?

You may think to yourself: "I'll be worrying about freckles and sunburn all summer, anyway, why start with them now?"

But the point is, if you are able to start in the spring with a clean record and a clear complexion, you won't mind so much the marks left by a new spring.

Then who can tell, if you get your skin in the habit of being clear and unblemished, it may decide not to go back to its old ways? For it's said that the freckles diminish with increasing years.

The little girl who was as freckle-faced as a turkey egg often grows into a

YOUR HEALTH

What the U. S. Army Says About Being Too Stout

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Commissioner of Health, New York City
U. S. Senator-Elect from New York State

SOMETIMES I get out of patience with army orders. It is hard for a layman to understand some of them. Of course, they would not be issued just for the fun of it, so they must serve a useful purpose. Certainly they are intended to do so.

But here is a statement which everyone can applaud:

"Army surgeons have declared a ban on obesity in the commissioned personnel of that service. Recent surveys of physical records of officers in connection with the elimination law showed that many defects, which ultimately incapacitated individuals, might have been prevented had intelligent efforts been made to remedy them in their early stages."

"It was found that the chief cause of physical inefficiency was overweight, and that in the vast majority of cases that condition was due to ignorance and neglect of the ordinary rules of health."

I have been preaching this doctrine for years, and am delighted that the army surgeons have come out so strongly. Many boys and young men are interested in military affairs, and I have heard that young women are attracted sometimes to army officers. In consequence, the results of this pronouncement will be widespread. The good effects of reducing the weight of the soldiers will be felt by large numbers of the civil population.

We recognize that an occasional victim of overweight is fat because of some abnormality in his glandular action, or for some more mysterious reason. Such is uncommon, and the report I have referred to declares they are exceedingly rare among army officers.

The bold statement is made that "the individual who carries an excessive amount of fat stands guilty of neglecting his physical service to the government, and if he is negligent in the least to deteriorate he falls in the proper performance of his duty."

This is strong language, but I endorse every word of it. Excessive weight is a great handicap to efficiency; it is a factor in disease production, and it materially shortens life. To permit yourself to grow heavy and ponderous is not wise.

I have talked and written an endless amount on this subject, so instead of using my own words again, let me quote a little more from this interesting and illuminating pronouncement of the army surgeons:

"Weight should be reduced gradually, under the supervision of a physician, and if possible, and systematic and appropriate physical exercises are urged as necessary factors in any method of weight reduction that may be adopted in individual cases."

Add to this advice the suggestion that food values should be studied and that appropriate changes in diet must be practiced, and you are on the way to liveness and lengthened life.

All hail to these sensible army surgeons!

Answers to Health Questions

T. J. K. Q—I have been told that there is a hospital in New York where young men can become doctors who must attend an education. What do you please tell me whether this is true?

A—To become a physician one must have a sturdy constitution and the go to a medical college for four years. I do not know of any hospital such as that you mention.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, FEB. 6.

The astrologer on duty on this day must be interpreted as conflicting. While those in the employment of others are under excellent trine of the luminaries, and Jupiter with Luna favors, yet malefic hold sway by lunar and mutual direction. It may be well, considering these contradictions, to hold affairs to a conservative course, shun new enterprises and avoid change. Domestic affairs are favorably aspected, say the astrologers.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a year of unsettled affairs, though those in the employment of others may prosper. They should adhere to old lines, and avoid reckless new adventures. Children born on this day may attain its best success in the employment of others.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

DICKY'S CHAT WITH PORKY PORCUPINE.

"HUM!" Dicky halfway laughed as he came upon the strange-looking creature behind the iron bars. "I'd sure hate to meet you in the dark. My, but those horrid quills of yours would be hard to get out."

"I'll say they are," replied the animal. "I never saw a porcupine yet that didn't have trouble getting his quills out."

"Oh! I meant the quills you might throw into me when I startled you," said Dicky. "You certainly are a dangerous-looking creature. So you are a porcupine, are you?"

"Porky Porcupine," so my mother called me, and somehow the keeper of the zoo here calls me that, too," laughed the prisoner. "Just so long as he calls me to my meals I don't mind my name. But do you really think I can throw out these quills, so they will stick into you?"

"That's what I've always been told," replied Dicky. "I always was told to run and run fast when I saw you coming or you'd fill me full of those sharp quills."

"And what did you think I'd do for more quills after I had used the ones I had?" Porky Porcupine asked merrily. "Grow more?" Dicky replied. "Spiders and bugs can grow new legs when they lose those they have."

"Not being a spider or a bug, I can't say," laughed Porky Porcupine. "But we never let go of our quills. You see, that's our only means of defence. When something bothers us, we poke them all up in the air and turn our backs and just back into the offender. I will say I had better not let us get too close to him or we may leave a quill sticking in him. You see, all these quills are set so loosely in our skins that if they touch the other fellow they may accidentally stick there."

"And do they really hurt—do the quills that do stick into you?" Dicky asked. "I should think they would drop right out again."

"Say, what do you think these quills are?" asked Porky Porcupine. "They're not bone. They are nothing more than many strands of hair, packed together so tightly that they look like bristles. But, let me tell you, once they get into a fellow's skin they don't drop out, but keep going deeper and deeper into the wound."

"One day I was attacked by a tiger. When he stuck out his paw to strike me, I turned my back and backed into him and he ran away howling with pain. I saw a friend of mine several days later and he said his paws were still too sore to attack any one."

"That served him right," laughed Dicky. "Well, I'm glad to know you don't throw your quills through the air, for that seems to me to be a coward's way of fighting. I admire you for doing it the way you do."

"Best way in the world," laughed Porky Porcupine. "But you'll have to excuse me now—here comes my dinner." And Dicky turned to see the keeper toss Porky Porcupine's food over the bar.

Nodding his head to his new friend, Dicky ran on out of the zoo.

DEER DRIVEN INTO CITIES BY STORMS

Leap Thru Plate Glass Windows And Windshields Of Autoists

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 5.—Wild deer, driven into large towns by lack of food in their usual haunts, are imperiling citizens this winter. Reports come from busy towns indicating a situation unknown before even in remote days. A Clinton citizen asks the legislature to pay his expenses because a deer leaped through the windshield of his auto and caused the car to overturn, injuring the driver. A Williamamite minister barely escaped when a deer plunged through a window at the Y. M. C. A. and then jumped out through another window. A New Haven store had a plate glass window shattered by a deer, which died on the sidewalk shortly afterward.

A railroad train struck a herd of deer at Fairfield, killing two deer, of which one was a rare albino and the train barely escaped wrecking. Carcasses of deer, stricken to death have been found in suburban pastures, and reports of deer, trapped in deep snow and slain and eaten by dogs are numerous, particularly from lower Fairfield County, where the deer seem to have headed for the shores of Long Island Sound. Bridgeport is accumulating a deer collection for its city zoo from animals found exhausted in its public parks.

Croydon Airdrome, Inadequate For Growing Traffic, Is To Be Reconstructed

LONDON, Feb. 5.—A scheme for enlarging Croydon Airdrome, the English starting point and terminus for transcontinental air traffic, is now being constructed by the Director of Civil Aviation, General Sir Sefton Blakeney.

The volume of air traffic between London and the Continent in 1922 was nearly three times as great as that of 1921, and it was found that the existing air station arrangements were inadequate.

Additional ground will be taken over and built upon, and the new scheme provides for separate arrival and departure platforms for the main air lines and the doubling of present landing space.

Larger offices, customs depots and waiting rooms will be grouped around the platforms, while dominating the whole will be a huge wireless tower to supply latest weather and atmospheric reports.

YOUTH IS FREED

LOCKHAVEN, Pa., Feb. 5.—Not guilty. On the forty-fourth ballot, taken after they had been locked up for 114 hours, the jury in the case of Anthony Capello, local youth, accused of the murder of little Elizabeth Harley, school girl, following an alleged joy ride, returned a "not guilty" verdict.

The jury, it is said, had until the final ballot, stood eight to four for acquittal from the first. The defense contended that the girl was killed, not by any slayer, but accidentally when she was thrown from the auto against a pole.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is Multifid coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless) and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multifid, in a cup of glass, with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water, then apply the Multifid. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and sleek, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Multifid coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multifid.

RICH GEMS FOUND IN INDIAN MOUND

Necklace Valued At $15,000 Is Unearthed From Hopewell Grave In Ohio

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio, Feb. 5.—Information that a necklace, valued at $15,000, containing 200 freshwater pearls, was unearthed from the Hopewell Indian Mound, near Chillicothe, last Summer has just been made public.

Dr. W. C. Mills, Director of the Ohio State Archaeological Society, said: "This is the finest necklace ever found among the 'mound builders' relics." The gems are the property of the State. An offer of $15,000 for them was refused.

Several of the gems were polished and in perfect condition. The majority, however, were imperfect.

At the big Pileer Mound, near Bainbridge, another valuable find was made recently, when a conical quartz spearhead, over 11 inches in length, was dug up. This is the largest spearhead ever found in Ohio. The valuable relic had been washed out of the mound onto the property of Mrs. Mary Wood. It is now in the possession of the State Archaeological Society.

A grand rush of mound openers is expected in this vicinity this Spring and Summer, due to the recent valuable finds.

MODERN BUNGALOW IS ALL WRONG, SAYS MERCHANT IN ADVICE TO HOME BUILDERS

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 5.—Bitter experience in designing four homes for himself has convinced him that most bungalows are as inadequate to the needs of modern social life as "a high-wheeled bicycle," indicates Paul W. Miller, local meat merchant, in one of the most unusual advertisements that ever appeared in a Pennsylvania newspaper.

Miller, in revealing a unique "secret" on the 1923 Bachmanian Blowout at a Bungalow, concludes that the kitchen ought to be in the front part of the house, equipped with Morris chairs and davenport, rather than in the rear.

The following appeared as an introduction to the advertisement, over Miller's signature:

"After all these lectures and demonstrations for better homes and own your own home week, there will no doubt be a big boom in the furniture and building business. Personally I am all thru with home building. I have had 3 built, none of which ever suited the MRS. After we lived in them a year and with all this experience, I believe I am in a position to offer some good suggestions to prospective home builders and furnishers. If you're figuring on building or furnishing a home like they have been arranging for the past 100 years you will find that you are as far out of date as a high-wheeled bicycle.

Living Room Too Big.

"The ground floor of the average home now days is a large living room in front and a small dining room rite back of it and a tiny kitchen. The living room is 4 times the size of the other rooms. It is where the most of the money is spent for rugs and furniture and etc.

"Take my home, for instance. If you were a stranger and should step in our front door, you would say: Well, it looks like these people were well provided for, but should you stride into my other room in the JOINT you will rush and call up the Assoc. Charities and tell them to look into the situation up at Miller's, and same holds true to many homes, at least many that I have entry to. You will say it should be this way because the living room is the show-off room, that was O. K. 4 or 5 years ago, but now it's different.

"It seems like everywhere I go, we ain't no sooner said Good Evening, when the host pipes all the guests out in the kitchen, altho there's nothin out there for me. I am the kid that enjoys being left alone among a bevy of fair sex and besides it isn't more than a minute before one of them gets dry herself and says, Now let's go out and see what those naughty boys are doing. Like as if they didn't know. The next thing we know a gang of 2 dozen customers are parked in a room that was only built to accommodate 1 Swedish cook, and the quarters are so cramped that few escape without getting at least one drink spilled on them.

Kitchen In Front.

"My idea in arranging a new home is to have the kitchen in the front of the house and furnished with 3 davenports, 6 Morris chairs, and asbestos rug and piano. The modern house should also have hall entrance with built in check room, and a boy to check the guests' wraps. Without a check room there's often trouble. I remember one case when two families that used to be good friends are bitter enemies now because out at a party together one nite and when it came time to go home, the husband of one of the ladies put on an Ermine Cape that belonged to the other lady and not only wore it home, but slept in it.

"Tours for better homes, "PAUL W. MILLER." Miller runs a meat market.

According to experts Ireland's water courses could be made to yield power equivalent to the annual consumption of 7,500,000 tons of coal.

Reaping The Whirlwind

AFTER applying the torch men often seek in vain for ways and means to put out the fire. The Union-Record of Seattle observes that "A friend said to us the other day, 'As I read the story of the Ku Klux Klan activities in Morrice, Pa., I can't understand how human beings would do such things as are charged.'"

Replied the Seattle editor: "The answer is not difficult to find. It is the old, old story of 'sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind.' For more than two years every newspaper, every public speaker, every preacher, every magazine throughout the length and breadth of the land preached the doctrine of force."

"The whole population was dragged into subscribing to the doctrine that 'might makes right.' Prejudices were fanned into convictions that bred hate, and suspicion was at everyone's elbow to damn and convict the other fellow. All this was necessary, we were told, in order that the imperialistic aims of German autocrats might be thwarted."

"So every bit of energy and intelligence of which the nation was possessed was dedicated to the work of violence and destruction. The latest and most efficient methods of taking human life were taught millions of young men, while older people were taught that any means was fair means in carrying on the fight."

"Anyone who dared to denounce the enterprise was made the victim of mob hysteria that for savagery has no parallel in modern days."

"The reign of violence today is but the reflex of the teachings of yesterday. The cheapening of human life as it is daily expressed in killings is the fruit of the propaganda which justified all of the deadly mechanisms of war."

"We shudder when we read of the torture chamber methods of the Louisiana savages, forgetting that it is only a few short years ago that we were teaching millions of our young men the latest, most approved method of disemboweling an opponent with a bayonet."

"We denounce the spying secrecy of hooded bands, working under the cover of darkness, forgetting how millions of our best citizens indulged in spying and the breeding of suspicion as a daily part of their lives during the days of the war."

"Today we hold up our hands in horror as the fruit of our earlier activities are brot home to us. 'Violence begets violence' is true today as it always has been. We sow as we reap. Six years ago we began sowing the wind; today we are reaping the whirlwind."

"The Louisiana horror did not 'just happen.' It is a natural sequence of one of the major activities of our national life during the World War."

The Slippery Field Of Oil

THE papers have had much to say of late relative to the Teapot Dome oil transaction. As an investigation is under way in Congress public interest, after a lapse of several months, is revived again. This interest involves not so much the outcome of the investigation, for it will doubtless be a repetition of locking the stable after the colt is stolen, but in the merits of a case which is in itself as rotten a scandal for the present administration as the Ballinger betrayal of the public was to the Taft administration.

As detailed in many of the metropolitan papers this Teapot Dome affair is a shocking story. It will be remembered that a bargain was made between Secretary of the Interior Fall and Secretary of the Navy Denby on one hand, and oil magnates on the other, to turn over to a newly organized corporation a vast Government reserve of oil land in Wyoming that had been set aside for the exclusive benefit of the navy. The contract was signed with the full approval of President Harding. It was all done in the dark. Knowledge that such a deal had been consummated was accidentally discovered two weeks later by Senator Kendrick. The details were forthcoming upon demands made by him and other Senators, notably LaFollette.

The reserve originally was withdrawn under the Taft administration, and the purpose was to assure the oil-burning ships in the navy of a sure and adequate supply of fuel. It was a wise and important measure of self-defense, and the navy proceeded upon that assurance to the construction of additional vessels of the oil-consuming type. The excuse given for leasing it to a private corporation is that wells in adjoining fields might drain the Teapot Dome reserve—a possibility which is refuted by the very best authorities.

Moreover, if such a danger existed, why did not Secretaries Fall and Denby inform Congress and the country of the fact, and then proceed, in full public view, to take the steps necessary to avoid it? Why those dark-lantern conferences with Harry Sinclair and his representatives? Why the secretly signed contract? A previous attempt by private interests to encroach upon this asset of national safety was made under the Wilson administration, and was frustrated by the vigilance and determined action of Secretary of the Navy Daniels—a service for which that abused official has received scant gratitude. And Daniels, in a recent letter to Senator LaFollette, puts the case tersely, and calls attention to its worst aspect, in the following paragraph:

"The only way to keep an oil reserve in the ground. To permit it now to be wasted is a great deal, and to insure the oil most needed as a fuel for our navy is a great deal. We have such reserves abroad provided for apparently have decided to turn them over to be exploited by private corporations. It is simply outrageous. What is more, the time is likely to come when the people who are responsible for giving up the navy's oil reserve will find that they have endangered the very existence of the United States as an independent nation."

The administration pursues its "isolation" policy in foreign affairs, depending for defense upon the national arms—and simultaneously acts to cripple the navy! It is an irony too bitter for laughter. Refusing to steer the ship, the administration scuttles it.

On its face the scandal is worse than the Ballinger affair which blotted the record of the Taft administration. The full facts are yet to be disclosed. A thorough investigation is imperative and it is fortunate that there is a progressive bloc fighting for control of the Republican party and determined to expose the whole business. The slippery field of oil is good ground upon which to trip the feet of the administration.

There is something excessively irritating about the new scheme to aid prohibition enforcement. In every restaurant or supper club, of standing in town a uniformed policeman is on duty. He looks for born and bred for he knows his presence is unwelcome and is often an insult to respectable law abiding people. In very few instances have the officers made arrests and, whenever they do, it usually winds up in a free for all battle, endangering the lives of many. The officer himself feels a certain sense of disgrace for he is charged each night to a different cafe on the theory that he may be corrupted.

Speaking of prohibition, it was just ten years ago that a raucous roar reverberated up and down the Dazzling Gulch. Jim Rogan's Hotel Knickerbocker had just raised the price of a cocktail from 15 to 20 cents. Broadway called it a "blackjacking" procedure. Picture it!

Zoo Beckley, the adorable queen of Park Row's so called "sob sisters," is home from a globe trotting trip and she thinks old Broadway looks mighty good. She spent Christmas alone 3,186 miles from Broadway and, of all places, in Paris. The city was deserted for the holiday and Mrs. Beckley drove over to the left bank of the Seine and there, at a corner table under the pitying eye of the waiter, she ate her Christmas dinner and tried to be gay.

Dr. Coue was the guest of honor at the Dutch Treat Club—an organization of writers and artists that meets weekly at Browne's old chop house across from the Metropolitan. The little French doctor is at all times earnest and, after he had explained some of his methods, he began to read a number of testimonials from patients who had been healed. The next speaker was a comedian with the Folies. He said he had a testimony of healing from a visiting Texan. It read:

"Dear Sir, I was in New York two weeks ago and for two succeeding nights I took a couple of Polles chorus girls to dinner. I'm cured."

Fifth Avenue, after all, has a Main Street flavor. Traffic was stopped and clerks left their posts the other afternoon to see a fight between two German police dogs. It was a spectacular fight and to the death one canine dying before the police could separate them.

WALT MASON
-AUTO-SUGGESTION-

"Day after day, in every way, methinks I'm getting better!" I spring this spiel at every meal, and it has cured my tetter. In olden times I wrote my rhymes in pain and bitter sorrow though I took pills for many ills, no comfort could I borrow. All kinds of dope, with waning hope, I used to sadly swallow; if I knocked out the mumps or gout, some other ill would follow. And then I heard of one wise bird who cured men by suggestion, he'd heal man's aches in seven shakes, and never ask a question. I learned by heart his motto smart, that broke disease's fetter: "Day after day, in every way, I'm surely getting better." My face was bare of waving hair, which kept the takers peering, but now my beard is wide and weird, and birds are in it nesting. With spavined knees I walked the leas, and limped up to my attic; but now I prance and leap and dance, and pull stunts acrobatic. I'm full of pep, with buoyant step my errands I'm pursuing, while neighbors gaze in wild amaz, gadrooning and be-shrewing. For well they know that long ago I was a wreck unsightly, and it is strange to note the change, to see me blithe and sprightly. If you are sick or gentle hick, repeat this healing story. "Day after day, in every way I'm growing hunky dory."

PILOTS HOP OFF
TUESDAY TO SET
NEW AIR RECORD

Hope To Hang Up Mark
Of 44 Hours Without Making A Landing

DAYTON, Feb. 5.—Lieuts. John A. Macfadyen and Oakley G. Kelly, of McCook Field will hop off tomorrow from Wilbur Wright Field in an effort to hang up a mark for all other aviators to shoot at.

They will use the army transport, T-2, in which they made an unofficial record of little more than 35 hours from San Diego, Calif., last fall.

Orville Wright and K. M. Lane of the Dayton Wright Airplane Co. will act as observers for the Federated Internationale Aeronautique to make whatever record that may be made official.

A Frenchman now holds the record of 34 consecutive hours in air on the ground that the San Diego flight was unofficial because there were no observers on hand to check it.

Tomorrow's flight will be made around a circular course of which Wilbur Wright field is the center. From it the observers will have a clear and unobstructed view of the ship day and night. In addition to carrying lights on her wing tips, the T-2 will be in the focus of searchlights at the field during the time in the air at night.

All precautions are being taken to make this record stand regardless of any disputes from the French or any other aerial society. The plane was thoroughly tested today and when she starts her tanks will carry enough gas to insure a flight of 44 hours.

This is the goal aimed at if the men and machine hold out.

A hanging couch is being installed in the fuselage of the ship so one pilot may relax and sleep while the other is at the wheel.

The pilots will wear electrically heated clothing. Their bill of fare will include hot coffee, sandwiches and chocolate during the trip.

Following this flight the T-2 will be tuned up and flown to New York, preparatory to a transcontinental flight to San Diego, without stop.

DEMPSEY MATCH
PLANNED DESPITE MULDOON'S BAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, and Tom O'Rourke, match maker for the Polo Grounds, are scheduled to hold a conference this afternoon to discuss a bout for Dempsey, regardless of William Muldoon's latest decree that all heavy weight champion bouts are taboo in this state.

Muldoon declared he was influenced in this decision by reasons similar to the one which caused him to bar the Dempsey-Willis bout in New York.

He said that excessive publicity, in which million dollar offers were flaunted, had become an offense to the public and that exploitation of Dempsey as champion of the world was impeding the interests of the sport.

It just got so that when people were coming to look upon this heavy weight bout as a common nuisance, he added.

NEW PHILA TEAM IS DEFEATED BY COSHOCTON HI

The Coshocton high school helped a good record in basketball over the weekend when the team trimmed Frazeyburg on Friday night and New Philadelphia Saturday night at the M. E. gym. The score on Saturday night was 24 to 19.

The game started with three of the local regulars out of the lineup. Capt. Wagner and Squire were on the sidelines watching the game and Bretzius was still confined to his bed with the grippe.

Hull at center opened the scoring with a field goal. New Philadelphia with its clever team work ran up a total of 13 points in course of ten minutes of play, averaging a basket and a fraction a minute. At this stage Wagner and Squire entered the game and the local defense turned immediately into a stone wall. As a result the New Philadelphia outfit went scoreless the remainder of that half. The local varsity added four more field goals and two free throws, trailing at the close of the initial period, 13 to 12.

The final half proved to be a flax to the visitors. Bucher's quintet took possession of the floor in the second half by putting up a good hard fight. They soon got into the lead and maintained it until the game was over. Many personal fouls were called in the final period for holding and blocking. Wagner and Squire showed the lack of practice on the offensive due to their illness. They were strong on the defense.

Wilson led the locals in scoring with three field baskets and four free throws. Ladrick and Morgan played well for the visitors.

The Union high school aggregation from Burgettstown, Pa. comes here on Friday night to battle with the locals. The game is at the M. E. gym. Burgettstown lost to Coshocton on the former's floor by a score of 30 to 6 last season.

Following is the lineup and summary:

TIDAL WAVES IN HAWAIIAN
GROUP KILL 12, CAUSE LOSS
OF AT LEAST $2,500,000

HONOLULU, Feb. 5.—A survey started today was expected to reveal the full extent of the damage caused by the five tidal waves which Saturday dealt death and destruction.

Property loss is expected to exceed $2,500,000.

Loss of life is believed to have been confined to Hilo where 12 are thought to have lost their lives, although a definite check has not been completed.

All of the dead are Japanese and included one child washed from a Sampan which was caught on the crest of the first huge wave.

The island of Maui was hardest hit by the tidal waves, according to the reports reaching here. Damage to the city and harbor of Kahului was estimated today at $1,000,000 and damage to the island at $1,500,000.

Complete reports were lacking early today from all of the islands due to the fact that the mutual inter-island radio does not operate on Sunday.

Fears for the safety of Gov. Wallace R. Farrington and a party of friends were allayed last night when they returned from a week end fishing trip safely.

The maximum height of the tidal waves was apparently 15 feet, reported by the island of Kahului. Some reports said the first series of waves were most violent, while others said the second reached the greatest height.

Shipping losses were comparatively small.
